The second national survey, as part of the Evaluation of the Implementation of the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers, is being conducted from 2 - 20 March 2015.

The Evaluation, conducted by the Centre for Program Evaluation of The University of Melbourne in collaboration with AITSL, aims to determine the usefulness, effectiveness of implementation and impact of the Standards on improving teacher quality.

The National Survey 2015 will gather data on knowledge and awareness of, attitudes towards, use of and perceived impact of the Standards. This will build on the baseline results obtained from the first survey conducted in October 2013, providing information on implementation progress.

To ensure that all teachers, school leaders, preservice teachers and teacher educators are aware of this important survey, we ask that you help to raise awareness within your networks. To assist with this, attached is a range of promotional materials that could be forwarded on through your regular communication channels, including social media.

Should you require any additional information, please don’t hesitate to contact the AITSL Evaluation team at APSTevaluation@aitsl.edu.au or The University of Melbourne Evaluation team at apst-evaluation@unimelb.edu.au or 1300 831 774.
