There are limited spaces remaining, with up to 450 Catholic School principals expected to take part in what is shaping up to be one of the most dynamic and thought-provoking conferences held in Australia.

Leading the discussion is internationally renowned education consultant, government and agency advisor, and author Valerie Hannon.

Hannon will present two keynote speeches and two workshops dealing with the practicalities of education in the 21st Century and how to engage students in a way that will close the gap between the protected nature of school studies and the realities of the working world.

You need to register for the ACSP Conference now, to see Valerie Hannon in action and to take charge of the future of education at your school!
